To Jim Garrison from Harold Weisberg 3/17/68

Approach to Barbara Reid.

(to introduce Oswald)

Late last night I visited Barbara. She was quite excited. She believed she had just had a feeler from the CIA through the poverty program. She was being offered a job to prepare Negroes for TV work. It was immediately apparent to her that it made little sense for her to be hired when she has been out of the field for a year, and then for her to hire those who are active in the field to give the training, and she so decalred. It was brushed off.

During the conversation, she reports a number of things were said indicating an effort was being made to get a message to you, like you could be Senator if...

I encouraged her to make an immediate memorandum and left so my presence would not interfere with it.

If I recall the name she gave, it is Spise.
